McMaster Media Publishing, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 216 x 140 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .My Search for Meaning: A professor, his students, and 10 Great Conversations Conversations about the most important ideas ever considered: What is truth, good and evil, justice, liberty, equality, law, punishment, honor, friendship, and happiness? A book based on the conversations of a professor and his students, questioning life s dilemmas we all ultimately face. The dialog expresses contemporary concerns and the insights of history into 10 fundamental questions of human existence. Which 10 core questions form the basis for nearly all important personal and social decisions in contemporary society? This book is comprised of a series of conversations between a professor (the author) and his current and former students about 10 seminal ideas and the questions that surround those ideas. The conversations are contemporary in nature, occurring in and around campus, using common human experiences and conversations to make larger points. The 10 questions form the basis for much of what we know about living together successfully in a complicated world. Conversations about these questions will lead readers to think more clearly and make better judgments when faced with difficult life choices. This book is distinguished in combining both the philosophical basis for these timeless questions, while using current conversations among a variety of different students to illustrate their relevance in contemporary life. If a person was to read only one book on the role of fundamental ideas in living and better life and in shaping a better society, this book provides poignant insights in an interesting and highly-readable conversational format. CONTENTS Introduction: Facts and Values 1. Truth What is the truth and why is it so difficult to determine? 2. Good Evil How do...
