Excerpt: . total (1,000) marks may be obtained by adequate proficiency in any two or more of the five branches of science included under this head. Moral Sciences: that is, Logic, Mental, and Moral Philosophy 500. Jurisprudence. 375 Political Economy 375 Candidates are at liberty to offer themselves for examination in any or all of these subjects. No subjects are obligatory. There can be no question as to the difficult character of this examination. No amount of mere cramming can possibly qualify for so severe a test. It must be remembered also that no marks whatever are allowed for a subject unless a competent knowledge of that subject is exhibited in the examination paper. We have reason to believe that the system adopted by the Commissioners is to strike off 125 marks from the total obtained by every candidate in every subject. Thus the mere smatterer, who has failed to obtain more than that number of marks, appears in the Examiners return as 0 for that subject. If he obtain only 129 marks, he is returned as 4, and so on. A preliminary test examination in Handwriting, Orthography, Arithmetic, and English Composition precedes, by some weeks, the competition, and no candidate failing in this is admissible to the competition. The fees for examination in Scheme I. are--Preliminary 1; Competition 5. To give some idea of the degree of proficiency required, we subjoin a statement of the number of marks obtained by the successful candidates in...
