THE PACIFIC SCHOOL AND HOME JOURNAL, VOL. 5 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Pacific School and Home Journal, Vol. 5 The greatness of a teacher s responsibilities can never be laughed down, nor belittled, nor ignored. Standing forever by the gates messenger of the gods, translating their meanings not to men, worn, grey, hard of hearing, dull of sight, but to children, young, eager, swift-footed, rapturous, keen of apprehension the - true teacher is as one chosen from a multitude, and given a sign from heaven, and so anointed and set apart forever. To feel this truth strongly will give purpose and dignity to the teacher s character. The time is coming, let us not forget, when I am a teacher, will carry as much weight and professional meaning as, I am a lawyer, or, I am a physician. This is logically true, because neither law nor medicine are more a part of ultimate human development than is the profession-to-be of teaching. As the world grows wiser, the need of schools and colleges will be felt more and more; the demand for professionally trained teachers will increase. To make teaching a recognized profession, the friends of education must develop the professional feeling. Now, teachers, as a class, do not know enough of each other, or of the work which is being done in allied fields of human thought. They must link themselves more closely with the grander movements of the times. Suppose that the teachers of each county sent delegates to a State convention, where the best lecturers and teachers of national reputation were present; then, suppose that, after a week of solid work, and after even the most lagging soul had caught the march and impetus...
